

Tap into your most strategic asset

Unlock the power of your data

People are only as effective as the data they can access. But how do you know what data is most valuable? Avanade Business Intelligence services can help you make sense of the vast volumes of information at your disposal—and extend that information to everyone in your organization.

Transform the role of enterprise data

- Drive business success with actionable information and competitive insight through scalable solutions built on the Microsoft® platform.
- Gain a competitive advantage by extending business intelligence throughout the entire organization using the tools people already know and use.
- Take advantage of intelligent dashboards and portals to facilitate better decision-making and analysis, and empower employee innovation.
- Lower the cost of business intelligence solutions with Avanade preconfigured assets, reusable code and industry-specific solutions.

Create action out of insight

From structured data to unstructured data, the information for business success already exists—and it grows in volume daily. The key to successful business intelligence lies in turning information into actionable insight—and then making that insight available throughout the organization. And that's where Avanade Business Intelligence services provide real value.

We can help you extend the adoption and reach of business intelligence systems within your organization. Our proven solutions integrate reporting, analytics and information sharing with the tools your people use every day. Our preconfigured assets—such as rapid development techniques and pre-assembled code—help you get up and running quickly. Whether you need to standardize access to critical data or you need industry-specific solutions for healthcare, financial, telecommunications and more, you'll benefit from:

- Enterprise Performance Management™ (EPM), a metrics-driven business intelligence solution that gives you a comprehensive view of the enterprise.
- Planning Framework™, a methodology for building models that help predict reliable outcomes, so you can respond quickly to changing business drivers.
- Extract Transform Load (ETL) Framework™, a set of prescriptive tools and guidance to help you manage data delivery from multiple operational systems into a single data warehouse.

Turn action into results

Information becomes strategic only when it's used to make informed decisions. And the more people use information strategically, the more likely you are to achieve business success. Our solutions are designed specifically to expose rich insight in ways that make sense to people and encourage collaboration. The result is a culture in which insight permeates the entire organization—and your people are empowered to achieve the best business results.

We start by identifying the information that has the highest potential impact on your organization. Then, we design and implement ways to capture it. This process delivers the same set of information so that every single department and person is able to access the most current data and make the most informed decisions.

Our scalable solutions then extend the power of business intelligence to everyone who needs it through your everyday work tools. Everyone in your organization will get a comprehensive view of customers, suppliers, market trends, financial performance and other key performance data. Departments will get the information they need to make the appropriate decisions. Individuals will be able to collaborate with each other so that they can derive the most value out of information. And you'll be able to harness information to support business goals.

Lower your total cost of ownership

There's a reason that Avanade is the global leader in data solutions. When you choose Avanade Business Intelligence services, you're not just unlocking the value of your information—you're also doing so in one of the most cost-effective ways possible. With deep Microsoft expertise, we are uniquely able to help you extend the value of your existing systems and accelerate your return on investment. Similarly, our systematic approach dramatically lowers the cost of business intelligence by using best practices and assets that may reduce the need for custom development and eliminate expensive data gathering and reporting processes.

We have 2,200 dedicated experts who have delivered more than 300 enterprise projects in the past three years alone. And that means we can work with you to create the exact solution that fits your most pressing business needs today, yet is flexible enough to change as your business requires.
